COLLINS FOOT FREE, BUT CAUGHT BY ROCK SLIDE

Shoals Bill's Leasing Terms To Be Liberalized

DEVELOPMENT OF CLINCH RIVER MAY BE TAKEN UP TOO

Dams On Tennessee's Feeder Would Double Power Of Shoals

REPORT DURING WEEK YET PLAN

Way Sought To Make Project Attractive To More Bidders

(Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 4—To insure cheap fertilizer the conferees considering the Underwood Muscle Shoals bill virtually have agreed to liberalize the rental terms of the measure.

As the measure now stands, the lessee would be required to pay an annual rental of four per cent of the $50,000,000 cost of dam number two. Spokesmen for the conferees declared that it would hardly seem "fair to assume that a lessee would pay down $2,000,000 the first year of a pound of fertilizer the first year because of lack of buildings and machinery."

The present plan of the conferees is to change this clause to allow the operator to pay smaller rentals during the early years of the lease, with requirements for increases during the latter stages that would return to the government ultimately the same amount that would be paid under the present terms of the bill.

So far, the conferees have shown no disposition to get away from the requirement of production of 40,000 tons of fixed nitrogen annually, but they have agreed to extend the time when this amount would be required.

The Underwood bill now calls for 40,000 tons at the end of six years and this is expected to be extended at least eight years.

The conferees considered and definitely adopted a proposal to incorporate in the Underwood bill authorization of the use of power resources of Clinch river, which joins the Tennessee river near Knoxville.

A plan was submitted providing for the construction of dams on this river that engineers estimated would double the amount of power available at Muscle Shoals. Objection was made to the proposal in conference on the ground it would be new legislation and subject to a point of order in the senate that might jeopardize the whole Muscle Shoals legislation.

The conferees still adhere to the plan to report the bill sometime this week.

LOCAL MAN HURT AS TRAINS COLLIDE

Engineer Korthheimer is Painfully Injured; Jumps From Cab

(Associated Press)
SPEIGNER, Ala., Feb. 4—Sixteen freight cars were destroyed in a rear end collision on the Louisville and Nashville here today, in which engineer T. C. Korthheimer, of Albany, Ala., was painfully injured.

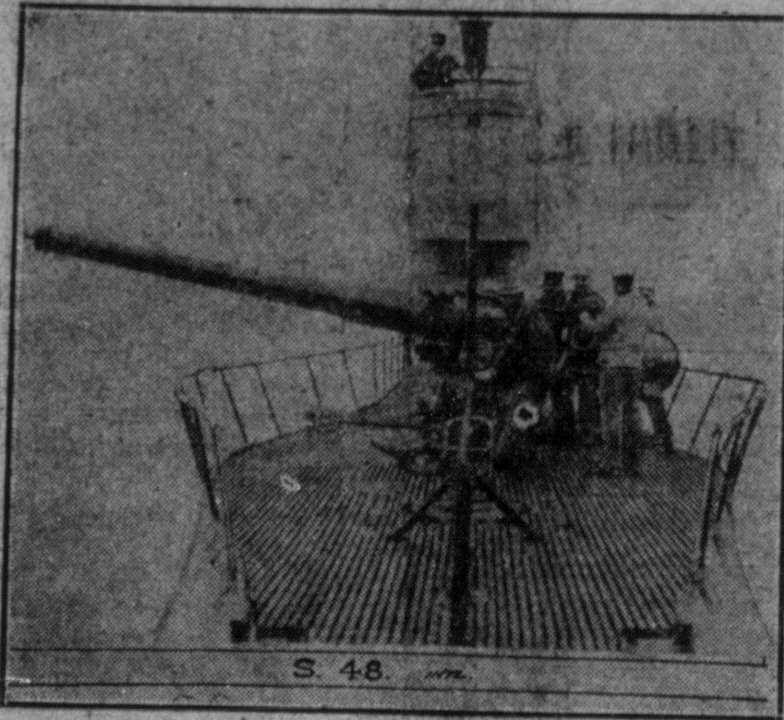

The cars caught fire after the wreck and a large amount of merchandise is believed to have been destroyed.

Convicts from the state prison camp at Speigner aided in removing much valuable freight from the flames.

The wreck occurred when freight train No. 7 ran into the rear end of freight train No. 75.

Engineer Korthheimer and a negro fireman jumped just before the engine rammed the caboose, fortunately empty, of the train ahead. The engine and several cars left the track.

Save Crew of Submarine S-48

Huddled together in one of the compartments of their vessel, to escape the deadly fumes of escaping chlorine gas, the forty-six half-frozen officers and men of the U. S. Submarine S-48, which struck on the rocks off Portsmouth, N. H., have been rescued by Coast Guard men. The S-48 had another disaster in 1921, sinking to the bottom of Long Island Sound. The heroism of a sailor, who was shot to the surface through a torpedo tube, resulted in saving the vessel and her crew.

TEACHER TRAINING CLASSES ARE SET

Dr. Hunter to Conduct Sessions Beginning On February 9

Plans were formulated to conduct a teacher's training class at the Central Methodist church at the monthly meeting of the teachers and officers of the Sunday school at the auditorium of the church last night.

The class is to be conducted by Rev. Jas. D. Hunter and will be held in the church every evening from Monday, February 9 through February 17. A special invitation is extended to the teachers of the First Methodist church of Decatur, the Ninth street church, and the Austinville Methodist church to attend the classes with the regular teachers of the Central church.

The primary object of this work is the general improvement of the Sunday school departments by aiding the teachers in doing better work, while a secondary object is the lining up of an evangelistic campaign in the Sunday schools to aid in the pre-Easter revival to be put on by the church belonging March 29 and ending April 12.

Rev. Hunter, the pastor in charge of the church received a telegram this morning from Dr. L. D. Patterson, a worker with the Centenary commissions of Nashville, a recognized leader in evangelistic circles and a former missionary to China, accepting the invitation to conduct the evangelistic services. Dr. Patterson is well known through the south as a forceful speaker and a broad thinker and it is believed that he will gather appreciative and enthusiastic crowds throughout the services.

It was suggested that if arrangements could be made, it is the desire of the church officers to have a woman's worker here to work among the business women of the cities during the revival.

Wounded Man Is Very Low Today

The condition of S. Morris French wounded during a shooting affray in a Hartselle pool room, on January 10 is said to be very low.

BURNETT HONORED BY JUNIOR ORDER

Library to Be Erected At Tiffany, Ohio, By Members

The late John W. Burnett, congressman from Alabama and the author of the immigration act, has been recognized by the national Junior Order of American Mechanics by an orphanage at Tiffany, Ohio, which was given the Alabamian's name.

A library is being constructed at this home, which is one of the largest in the United States at an expense of about $250,000. To raise the necessary money to pay for this institution, a liberty bell bank is being sent to the secretary of each local order, for the collection and storing of donations from the members of the order.

It is believed that the half million men who wear the emblem of the order will be able to pay the amount within a short time.

JOHNSON'S ATTACK ON PACT AT PARIS CONTINUED TODAY

Senator Requests That Consideration By Senate Be Given

LET'S STATEMENT OF HUGHES STAND

Decision On Power Of Executive Branch Is Demanded

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4—Without undertaking to discuss directly Secretary Hughes' reply regarding the Paris reparations agreement, Senator Johnson, republican of California, one of the irreconcilables, asked the senate today to consider "the grave and important questions which have been presented by what happened at Paris."

"From that conference," he said, "two important questions come to us that same day, by some senate and by some American people, we must decide."

The first question, Senator Johnson added, is by the possibility that may come out of the action at Paris, while the second is the question of the power of the executive branch of the government to determine, without the consent of congress, what should be done with the debt of a nation.

"I am deeply concerned with the possibilities that may come from what was done by the United States at Paris," the California senator continued. "I recognize the position of the Secretary of State. I neither question it nor criticize it. I take it that when the Secretary of State says the United States is neither legally nor normally bound, he expresses his present intention."

The senator added that administrative change and that he felt someone ought, in the congress of the United States to render that service he can in the avoidance of perils that may lie ahead.

Farm Work Held Up By Weather

(Associated Press)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 4—Very little outside farm work has been accomplished during the past month due to cold and inclement weather, though in some southern areas, it has been possible to prepare the soil for spring planting, according to the mid-month crop report of the United States department of agriculture based on reports of the Bureau's Agricultural Statisticians in the various states.

Farm supplies of corn were reported as lower than is usual at this time in most instances while selling has been encouraged by higher prices and soft and chaffy corn has been fed rapidly.

Winter grains are reported for the most part as being in apparently good condition, and probably a somewhat smaller proportion than usual is under snow cover. In some southern areas where low temperatures prevailed with no snow cover, some injury has been sustained by wheat, oats and barley. Although it is said to be too early to estimate the condition of the wheat crop accurately, indications are that but little damage by freezing or exposure has been done in the greater part of the wheat belt.

Livestock generally has been reported in good health. The number of hogs and cattle on feed are generally shorter than usual. This was said to be especially true of hogs as they have been sold off much more freely than usual due to the shortage of the corn crop and the high prices asked for feeds. For the most part the stocks of feed other than corn seem sufficiently large to last through the winter unless the season is unduly prolonged.

CHILD THINKS SHE FED GROUND GLASS TO THREE PERSONS

Alienist Insists that Girl Really Believes She Killed Sisters

Family Where the Child Lived Declare She Tells True Story

(Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 4—If seven year old Alsa Thompson did not kill her twin sisters in Canada two years ago, by feeding them ground glass she thinks she did, according to alienists who have examined her.

Dr. Edwin H. Williams characterized her as "an abnormal child of a high intellectual type," but "born with too much intellect and not enough judgment."

He said he would not pass judgment on the truth or falsity of Alsa's confession, but he was sure Alsa actually believed she had killed her sisters and an adult who formerly took care of her.

Alsa's father, Russell Thompson, characterizes the child's story as absurd and impossible but members of the family with whom she has been boarding insists she tells the truth and cite alleged instances of poisoning lately attempted by the girl.

BIRMINGHAM DOGS WIN TRIALS DERBY

Three Setters Carried Away First Three Places in Event

(Associated Press)

COURTLAND, Ala., Feb. 4—Birmingham dogs figured largely in the final results of the derby of the Alabama trials, which was decided yesterday afternoon. Three Birmingham setters accounted for the first three places in the stakes.

The winner of the stakes, Robert Kennedy, a handsome setter, owned and handled by Hugh Seals, of Birmingham. The second dog was also a setter, owned by H. A. Schroeder, but handled by Mr. Seals, and the puppy "Lone Boy's Kid" which won the puppy stakes Monday, accounted for third place. He was handled by his owner, B. McCall and on this occasion the puppy went fully as well as he did in the earlier events.

The fourth place winner was the pointer "Jim's Jean" owned and handled by J. J. Harris of Courtland. "Jean" ran one of the best class races of the series and many picked her to win.

Mrs. R. V. Sanders Called to Reward

Mrs. R. V. Sanders passed away at her home in Athens Tuesday night at 9 o'clock after an illness of little less than a week. Mrs. Sanders was one of the most revered and highly respected women of the old southern stock in the city and she had a great number of friends in Albany-Decatur who mourn her loss.

Taken ill last Thursday with pneumonia, the condition of the aged lady grew steadily worse until her death last night.

Funeral services will be conducted from St. Timothy's Episcopal church Thursday at 2 o'clock of which she was a loyal member. The reverend Thomas G. Mundy will officiate. The deceased is survived by a brother a sister and several nieces.

CHARLES R. FORBES SENTENCED TO PEN

Former Official Rapped By Jurist for Record As Bureau's Chief

(Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Feb. 4—Charles R. Forbes, former director of the veterans bureau and John W. Thompson, wealthy St. Louis contractor, today were sentenced to two years imprisonment in Leavenworth penitentiary and $10,000 fines by Judge Carpenter.

They were found guilty January 30 of conspiracy to defraud the government in the allocation of veteran's hospitals contracts and received the maximum sentence.

The court granted a 30 day stay of sentence for the filing of an appeal and defense counsel indicated the case would be immediately appealed. "When those in the high positions of public trust betray that trust, there is an attack upon the fundamental fabric of our institutions," said Judge Carpenter in denying motions for a new trial.

"The fact that defendant Forbes offered his life to his country in the world war and received the distinguished service medal is going to make it all the harder for him. According to the jury, after offering his life for his country, he betrayed his country's trust. From the verdict of the jury is apparently accepting the testimony of Ellis Mortimer, the informer, as true, I think there was evidence here on which a charge of fraud could be brought in any court."

CAVE'S PRISONER IS WALLED IN BEHIND NEW ROCKY SHEET

Barricade Probably can Be Cleared Away by Late Afternoon

IS TOO WEAK TO WORK WAY OUT

Aeroplane Is Carrying Chicago Surgeon to Cave City Today

(Associated Press)

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 4—Mrs. Emmon Blaine, of Chicago, was "the public spirited citizen" who financed Dr. W. H. Hazelett's hurried trip from Chicago to Cave City, Ky., to render any aid possible to Floyd Collins, pinned in Cave City since Friday by a boulder it was learned here today.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 4—An aeroplane left Louisville at 10 a. m. today for Cave City with Dr. William Hazelett, Chicago surgeon who was commissioned by an unknown Chicago woman, to rush to Cave City and render whatever assistance was needed Floyd Collins, imprisoned in Sand Cave since Friday.

CAVE CITY, Feb. 4—A slide in Sand Cave this morning left Floyd Collins, 35, foot free for the first time since he was imprisoned Friday morning when a boulder wedged his leg where rescuers were unable to reach him, but Collins was left walled in behind rock which fell from the side of the cave.

This information was brought to the mouth of the cave by Roy Cooksey, a negro, engaged in rescue work. The rock barricade probably can be cleared away sometime this afternoon, Cooksey said.

Collins called from the other side of the rock that his feet were free, but said he was too weak to work his way out, Cooksey declared.

An aeroplane was near Cave City shortly after 11 o'clock and was believed to be the machine bringing Dr. Hazelett, Chicago surgeon from Louisville where he left a train for faster transportation.

The plane landed some distance away. Another trip into the cave this afternoon revealed that Collins may have been only partially freed around the feet. William B. Miller, staff correspondent of the Courier-Journal emerging from the cave shortly after noon, said he thought Collins was but little better off, himself and asserted that the wall blocking further efforts to reach Collins probably was two feet thick.

John F. Collins, a miner, also said he talked to the imprisoned man.

The rock which now blocks the passage, fell from the side of the cavern according to Cooksey, who says it was the same disturbance which left Collins' feet free, although the cave victim still is caught in the hole where he has spent 124 hours.

Whether it would be a difficult matter to release him, after the newly accumulated debris can be cleared away, was a matter of speculation.

Progress was made during the night in the removing stones, cave ooze and other matters from around Collins' body as far down as the calf of his leg and the work of widening and deepening the passageway may have been responsible for the slide, it was stated.

The slide which now barricades progress was described by Ewing Ashley, an employee of the Kentucky Asphalt company, who was with the rescue party which discovered the debris, as one huge rock about the size of a soap box with an accumulation of earth and stones surrounding it.

Advice to Girls
By ANNIE LAURIE.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
B. says that if you pass a friend on the street, it is the girl's place to speak first.

A. says that it is always the gentleman's place to speak first. DOT AND DIMPLES.

DOT AND DIMPLES: It is always the girl's privilege to greet the gentleman first; for if this way she signifies her willingness to have him speak to her.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
I am a young man in my teens. I have been going with a girl for over a year. She promised to marry me, but I have seen her go out with other men. She was the joy of my life.

Should I discontinue going with her? TENDER-HEARTED: You are both too young to be seriously considering the question of marriage. Your friends' actions ought to prove that to you. Why can't you be just good friends and forget all thoughts of marriage until you are older?

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
Why do so many girls take a man's arm while out walking where the thoroughfare isn't crowded? I know it is proper to assist ladies in crowded streets, but just why do they do it when there is no necessity for it?

DOUGLAS: It is incorrect for a lady to take a man's arm unless she is in need of assistance.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
I am a woman thirty-five years of age. Some years ago I met a nice man and we became the best of friends until something happened that has put a barrier between us. But he is just as sweet as he ever was and has made efforts to speak to me.

I am still worried about what happened and I always feel like running away from him, as if I was frightened. It is a dreadful feeling and I wish I could overcome it.

M. V.: If this man is "sweet" and charming, as you say, then why are you afraid of him, my dear? You must not allow a groundless fear to take hold of you that way. Make up your mind that there is nothing to be afraid of and you won't be afraid, dear.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
I am a married woman. I have been married twice and have one child. I am twenty-six years of age. I also love my first husband, but he would never take me out and show me a good time. Then I met another man, who told me he would take me out and show me a better time. So I left my first husband and married him, but didn't marry him for love, but to have pleasure. My child belongs to my first husband. And then I found out later that love is better than pleasure. Would you advise me to go back to my first husband, who has asked me to come back?

DISAPPOINTED WIFE:

DISAPPOINTED WIFE: Whether you should go back to your first husband or not is a question which only you can decide, my dear. But remember, that if you do, it must be "for better or for worse." Before you do anything at all, weigh your heart and your mind and let them guide you.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her in care of this office.

A Romance of the Spanish Main
CAPTAIN BLOOD
by RAFAEL SABATINI

Copyrighted, 1922, by Rafael Sabatini.
"CAPTAIN BLOOD," a Vitaphone picture with J. Warren Kerrigan in the title role, is an adaptation of this thrilling novel.

Things had not sped at all well with him in the past fortnight, since his acceptance of the King's commission. There had been trouble with Bishop from the moment of landing. As Blood and Lord Julian had stepped ashore together they had been met by Colonel Bishop, who took no pains to dissimble his chagrin at the turn of events and his determination to change it.

Blood's thoughts were upon this and other things as he lounged there on the day-bed. He had been a fortnight in Port Royal, his ship virtually a unit now in the Jamaica squadron. And when the news of it reached Tortuga and the buccaners who awaited his return, the name of Captain Blood, which had stood so high among the Brethren of the Coast, would become a byword. And for what had he placed himself in this position? For the sake of a girl who avoided him so persistently and intentionally that he must assume that she still regarded him with aversion. Nor was that the worst of it. He was allowed plainly to perceive that it was the graceful, elegant, young trifter from St. James's, Lord Julian Wade, to whom her every moment was devoted. What chance had he, a desperate adventurer with a record of outlawry, against such a rival as that? A man of parts, moreover, as he was bound to admit?

A boat that had approached unnoticed from the shore came scraping and bumping against the great red hull of the Arabella. Captain Blood rose, tall, active and arrestingly elegant in a scarlet, gold-laced coat that advertised his new position.

"A note for you from the Deputy-Governor," said Jeremy Pitt shortly, as he proffered a folded sheet.

Blood broke the seal and read. "It is a very peremptory summons," he said, and passed the note to his friend.

The young master's grey eyes skimmed it.

"You'll not go?" he said, between question and assertion. Why did ye let Wolverstone and the others go?" he cried, with a touch of bitterness. "You should have seen the danger."

"How could I in honesty have detained them? It was in the bargain. Besides, how could their staying have helped me?" And as Pitt did not answer him: "Ye see?" he said, and shrugged. "I'll be getting my hat and cane and sword, and go ashore in the cock-boat. See it manned for me."

"Ye're going to deliver yourself into Bishop's hands," Pitt warned him.

Blood knew as well as Pitt that in going ashore that morning he carried his life in his hands. Walking leisurely, he skirted the embattled wall and passed through the great gates into the courtyard. On his right stretched a spacious garden, beyond which rose the white house that was the residence of the Deputy-Governor. In that garden's main avenue, that was fringed with palm and sandalwood, he had caught sight of Miss Bishop alone. He crossed the courtyard with suddenly lengthened stride.

"Good morning to ye, ma'am," was his greeting as he overtook her; and, hat in hand now, he added on a note of protest: "Sure, it's nothing less than uncharitable to make me run in this heat."

"Why do you run, then?" she asked him coolly, standing slim and straight before him, all in white and very maidenly save in her unnatural composure. "I am pressed," she informed him. "So you will forgive me if I do not stay."

"You were none so pressed until I came."

"Since you perceive it, I wonder that you trouble to be so insistent."

That crossed the swords between them, and it was against Blood's instincts to avoid an engagement.

"Faith, you explain yourself after a fashion," said he. "But, since it was more or less in your service that I donned the King's coat, you should suffer it to cover the thief and pirate."

She shrugged and turned aside, in some resentment and some regret. Fearing to betray the latter, she took refuge in the former. "I do my best," said she.

"So that ye can be charitable in some ways?" He laughed softly. "Glory be, now, I should be thankful for so much. Maybe I'm presumptuous. But I can't forget that when I was no better than a slave in your uncle's household in Barbados, you used me with a certain kindness."

"Why not? In those days you had some claim upon my kindness. You were just an unfortunate gentleman then."

"And what else would you be calling me now?"

"Hardly unfortunate. We have heard of your good fortune on the seas; how your luck has passed into a byword. And we have heard other things; of your good fortune in other directions."

She spoke hastily, the thought of Mademoiselle d'Ogeron in her mind. And instantly would have recalled the words had she been able. But Peter Blood swept them lightly aside, reading into them none of her meaning, as she feared he would.

"Aye; a deal of lies, devil a doubt, as I could prove to you."

"I cannot think why you should trouble to put yourself on your defense," she discouraged him.

"So that ye may think less badly of me than you do."

"What I think of you can be a very little matter to you, sir."

"Can ye say that now? Can ye say that, beholding me in this liver of a service I despise? Didn't ye tell me that I might redeem the past? It's little enough I am concerned to redeem the past, say only in your eyes. In my own I've done nothing at all that I am ashamed of, considering the provocation I received."

"I—I can't think why you should speak to me like this," she said, with less than her earlier assurance.

"Ah, now, can't ye, indeed?" he cried. "Sure, then, I'll be telling ye."

"Oh, please!" There was real alarm in her voice. "I realize fully what you did, and I realize that partly, at least, you may have been urged by consideration for myself. Believe me, I am very grateful. I shall always be grateful."

"But if it's also your intention always to think of me as a thief and a pirate, faith, ye may keep your gratitude for all the good it's like to do me."

A livelier color crept into her cheeks. But, if she resented his tone and his words, she stifled her resentment. She realized that perhaps she had herself provoked his anger. She honestly desired to make amends.

"You are mistaken," she began. "It isn't that."

"What is it, then?" quoth he, and added the question: "Lord Julian? Och, be frank with me," he urged her, unpardonably. "It will be a kindness, so it will."

"You—you are quite insufferable," she said. "I beg that you will let me pass."

"I'll not be detaining you any longer, ma'am. After all, the cursed thing I did for nothing can be undone. Ye'll remember afterwards that it was your hardness drove me."

"You take that tone! You dare to take that tone!" she cried, astounding him by her sudden vehemence. "You have the affront to upbraid me because I will not take your hands when I know how they are stained; when I know you for a murderer and worse!"

"A murderer—?" he said at last. "Must I name your victims? Did you not murder Levasseur?"

"Levasseur?" He smiled a little. "So they've told you about that?"

"Do you deny it?"

"I killed him, it is true. I can remember killing another man in circumstances that were very similar. That was in Bridgetown on the night of the Spanish raid. Mary Trull would tell you of it. She was present."

He clapped his hat on his head with a certain abrupt fierceness, and strode angrily away, before she could answer or even grasp the full significance of what he had said.

FRENCH FASHION SPOTLIGHTS EVOLVE LUXURY HAND BAG

PARIS—The "Velvet Pochette" is the latest fashion in bags which the Paris creative genius, always on the alert in imagining charming new frivolities to tempt the fashionable woman's fancy has invented.

They are mostly made in old-rose velvet, brightened by a formal design of steel paillettes and are to be had in all the colors of the rainbow. Small in size—about half the usual size of women's hand bags—they are just now enjoying a tremendous vogue in Paris.

A flowered bag in nigger-brown silk, ornamented with a bouquet embroidered in gold thread cut out on a yellow silk background, small enough to be put in the pockets of the wearer's greatcoats, was very much in evidence at the Auteuil racetrack recently when the thermometer was hovering around zero and fingers became numb with cold. The little bags only came out of the pockets to draw out the banknotes necessary to feed the ever hungry pari-mutuel booths.

CHANDLER-SISK WEDDING

A wedding of much interest the past week because of the popularity of the contracting parties was that of Miss Nina Sisk to J. Marion Chandler of Albany.

The marriage was solemnized in New Market at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Trice, uncle and aunt of the bride and with whom she has made her home since childhood. The home was beautifully decorated in potted and cut flowers while soft burning tapers lighted the improvised altar before which the ring ceremony was performed. Rev. H. E. Rice, officiating. There were no attendants, the couple entered alone to the strain of Mendelssohn's Wedding March by Miss Anita Finney of Winchester.

The bride never looked prettier than on her wedding day attired in a gorgeous satine of the new brick shade of spring and a hat of gold cloth and lace with accessories to match. Her flowers were brides roses and valley lilies. Miss Finney wore a black sat-in dress and her corsage was pink carnations. Numerous gifts of cut glass, silver, linen, were received, among them a chest of silver from the bride's father and a car from her uncle and aunt. Immediately following the ceremony they left for a short bridal tour, after which they will be at home in Albany, where Mr. Chandler holds a responsible position with the Chandler Dry Goods Co. Mrs. Chandler is an accomplished musician and had charge of the music department of the New Market High School prior to her marriage.

The guest list included only relatives and intimate friends of family. Among the out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Hawk and J. T. Sisk of Decatur; Pearl Barclay, Cabie Manning, Roy and Bob Hodges of Huntsville; Miss Kate Chandler of Scottsboro; Misses Anita Finney, Modena Sisk, Vera and Havel Mason of Winchester; Messrs. Ed Chandler and Clyde Dale of Albany.—Huntsville Daily Times.

Walter Plunkett who was accidentally shot about two weeks ago, is doing nicely at the Benevolent hospital.

MRS. HARRIS, BRIDGE HOSTESS

The home of Mrs. Frank Harris on Jackson street was the scene of a very beautiful bridge party on Tuesday afternoon when Mrs. Harris entertained in honor of Miss Harvey, bride elect of February eleventh. Mrs. John C. Bragg opened the door to the guests and Mrs. Harris received them in a striking creation of cut velvet with lace and fur trimmings and Miss Harvey was unusually pretty in a costume of red and black with a corsage of red roses and maiden hair fern. The entire lower floor of the home was thrown together and artistically decorated with smilax and red roses. Mrs. Reed Rogers conducted to the dining room where delicious punch was dispensed by Mrs. C. B. Elliott. The bowl rested on the dining table amid a bed of vines and flowers.

Bridge was played at eight tables the tally cards being heartshaped and the dainty favors were red hearts on which was a markin filled with pecans guarded by a cupid. A miniature bride and groom standing before an altar topped by a wedding bell, Mr. Mrs. Harris presented two embroidered linen towels to Mrs. Sheppard who made highest score a beautiful handkerchief to Mrs. B. M. Bloodworth who cut low for the consolation gift and to Miss Harvey she gave a silver bowl. A tempting plate of refreshments was served late in the afternoon.

SPORTS

Local Schedule Carried On Tonight; Falkville Hands Hartselle 49-7 Score

The local cage season will move forward another step tonight when the Albany high school and the Y. M. C. A. begin hostilities at 7 o'clock and the Power-Roofing company plays the Decatur aggregation at 8 o'clock. Officials for the games have not yet been announced.

The Albany high school is well out in front in the race and there seems to be little danger that they will be caught for some weeks. The Y. M. C. A. is the only team in the league that has offered them stiff opposition this year and although they lose to the Y. they will still have a good lead maintained.

The Power-Roofing company showed a good improvement in their recent appearance and is bidding strongly for a victory tonight.

Falkville high school handed Morgan County high a heavy defeat on Tuesday when they rolled up a 49-7 score with Sumnerford and Tomlinson starring at the forwards. Morgan County was unable to hand the Falkville lads any real formidable opposition and although they fought all the way they were unable to stop the scoring attack.

Falkville High expects the hardest game of their season on Thursday night when they meet the local Y. M. C. A. team on the Albany high court. The Y. M. C. A. is seriously handicapped by the loss of Sumnerford who will strengthen the Falkville team at a forward. The game is to be called at 8 o'clock and it is expected that a good crowd will be in attendance for the fray.

Although Tommy Gibbons has attained his 35th milestone in the race with Father Time he is still up among the top notchers in the pugilistic game. Gibbons is a family man and is said to have none of the earmarks of the regular pug that is identified with the game. Gibbons doesn't smoke, drink or even eat intemperately. He is not the rough and tumble type and enjoys his evenings at home. It is very likely that he will have a fight arranged for the summer months with Jack Dempsey who has announced his intended swan song to the ring for May 20.

A great number of people have been interested through this section in the destination of Herbert (Flash) Covington, the Centre College captain and star of the gridiron and court. Covington was in an automobile wreck during the Christmas holidays and will not go to West Point to play football. On the other hand he will return to Centre next fall where he will not be allowed to play football but will again be seen in action on the court. Covington is likewise one of the best in the entire southland in the matter of court ability and it is quite a bolster to Centre's hopes that he will return again to don the Colonel livery.

The greatest number of retirements from the prize ring that have ever been announced have flashed across the sport pages of the newspapers lately. Jack Dempsey is going to get

Plumber Thought He Needed New Pipes

"My stomach and intestines were always full of gas and I often had severe colic attacks. The pain and soreness caused me to think I needed a new set of pipes. Since taking Mayr's Wonderful Remedy all this has disappeared and my only trouble now is to make enough dough to buy all the food I'd like to eat." It is a simple harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. Bureau of Standards Plans Intricate Job For Itself

WASHINGTON—Among the difficulties encountered by engineers and scientists in a variety of enterprises is that metal discs of masses used in weighing the more delicate quantities refer to may vary in their own weight. The differences that arise from the ageing, oxidation, transformation of the metal in the weights have proven to be serious that the Bureau of Standards will endeavor to rid laboratories and workshops of the obstacle or work out a series of standard variations that will simplify the reaching of exact answers to specific problems in micro-weighing.

A whole series of metals and alloys are being prepared and tested out. Also the manipulation of the metal masses which go into delicate weights is being studied, that even—density may be obtained in the final castings. The work will not be stopped until the whole subject has been explored.

You can say one thing for the death ray. It will kill the cooties also.

CLERKS GAIN THREE MORE POINTS IN BOWLING TOURNEY

L. & N. Clerks gain another three points in bowling last night at the Y. M. C. A. The losers this time being the "Y" Dormitory who only took one point.

The second game of last night was very closely contested, the Dormitory losing it by three pins only.

Burnett of the Dormitory was in the right bowling mood last night, the bowling highest single and highest total pinnage. Burnett's average is coming up right along.

Teams bowling tonight will be the Bear Cats vs. the Tigers. The latter team gets a handicap of 123 pins.

The Railroads to Earn
On Their Property Investment

In 1924
They Actually EARNED

Short of the
So Called
"Fair Return"

4.30

THE FIGURES above quoted, representing in dollars and cents a total of 326 million dollars short of the 5¼% seem to offer proof positive that railroad rates are not too high and that the carriers are not "profiteering". The rate of return for 1924 is an estimate for the year, based on the actual returns for eleven months.

By eternal vigilance and efficiency methods, the railroads have been able to handle peak volumes of freight during the year just closed at an estimated saving to the public of $600,000,000, as compared to the rates which existed in 1921.

If the carriers are allowed to operate their properties under the existing terms of the Transportation Act, without the enactment of harmful legislation, the year 1925 should show a better record than that described above.

Rheumatism

"Good-bye old crutch!"

THERE IS positively no longer any excuse for suffering the agonies of rheumatism! Especially in the autumn of your life, when the vital organs weaken, impurities multiply and linger in the muscles and joints, as never before. It is now, just now, when you cannot afford to guess. No day returns!

Here is a joyous fact which can mean to you a fond farewell forever to all the miseries, the tortures, the body-twisting pains that you have suffered from the demon of rheumatism. It is a fact that rheumatism means "blood poverty." It is a fact with the increase of red-cells in your blood, impurities are destroyed. It is a fact that S.S.S. will help Nature build these red-blood-cells! S.S.S. is one of the most powerful blood cleansers in existence. Its results in thousands of rheumatic cases have been nothing short of amazing! The medicinal ingredients of S.S.S. are purely vegetable. This is very important to remember! What can be more inspiring, more wonderful than to see the shackles of pain released from your struggling body, swellings, lingering pains, stiffness of joints and muscles all disappear; your stomach made strong; your face pink with the old sweet-heart glow, your blood enriched and your cheeks more plump as they used to be. You can do it! Take S.S.S., the great destroyer of rheumatic impurities.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

The best way to solve this cross-word puzzle is to run over the list of horizontal and vertical synonyms in search of evident or "easy" words. If horizontal, the word you are looking for must extend crosswise from the number to the first shaded stop on the right; if vertical, it must extend downward from the number to the first shaded stop below. When finished, the words should read equally well crosswise and downward.

New York Letter

by Lucy Jeanne Price

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—The faith of individuals in their favorite causes is unbounding. I listened to a scientist talk for one hour the other evening outlining all of the symptoms that civilization is on the decline, if not already actually breaking up. He pointed to racial, national and group antagonisms as being greater than in many generations past, in modern art as an indication of the return to the primitive, of modern literature as a return to the animal traits, he predicted man as so overwhelmed by the mechanical inventions of the age that he was suffering shellshock and seeking the sleep of the middle ages as a respite. It was all most hopeless and most scientifically alarming. Then he asked for questions. And a serious looking gentleman rose and said, "I would like to ask if the speaker does not see a gleam of hope in the Boy Scout and Girl Scout movements."

Diogenes should have been pleased with an incident in our subways. James Wallace a subway guard, earning $32 a week and trying to save enough money to send for his wife and children in Scotland, found a pocketbook on the platform with $1,573 in it, and no means of identification. He admits that he fondled it for a moment, thinking what that amount would mean to his family. Then he turned it over immediately to the station agent. It is with pleasure that one is able to report that when Mrs. Celia Weinbaum returned looking for it and had made good her claim to its possession, she gave $200 to James Wallace. That will go far toward the third class tickets from Scotland.

Eddie Canter's singing isn't all that would be demanded of a member of the Metropolitan Opera company but he never expected to be arrested for it. He sang at a benefit game last Sunday with the result that he was haled into court on a charge of violating the Sabbath law. The policeman who arrested him was asked what song he was singing. "I don't know the name or whether it was in Hebrew or Greek. But he was making a noise," was the classy criticism. Canter assured the court that he was a singer and not a basket ball player. "Are you willing to sing to prove it?" the judge asked. "Sure, if you'll sell tickets," Canter replied. The magistrate dismissed the case.

I suppose there is no more commonplace comment on any place than its continuous change. How forlorn and outlashed a member of New York's old "Four Hundred" must feel. It came to me the other night with renewed force. I picked the coldest night of the winter to travel down to the Neighborhood Playhouse on Grand Street to see the inimitable performance of "The Little Clay Cart" for a second time. The performance is absorbing enough but the audience is what struck me particularly. In the small confines of the theater in lowest Manhattan on one of the worst nights of the year were diamonded dowagers, Indian poets, dilettantes, a neighboring Chinese laundryman, Jewish merchants from the district and their wives, Armenian lovers, a noted Divine of the Episcopal church and others who didn't seem to belong anywhere doing their New York.
